CALL TO ORDER

Dr. Wesley called the meeting to order at 9:10 a.m. He welcomed everyone to this special meeting and thanked all the counselor educator's for attending.

NEW BUSINESS

The drafted regulation changes were thoroughly reviewed by the Board and all guests in attendance. The Board members noted changes to be made to the draft based on feedback and discussion from the counselor educators.

The role of counseling associations, both state and national, was addressed by the Board and discussed among all the attendants. The importance of the Board working in conjunction with the associations was also emphasized.

Examinations required for licensure were discussed and debated, including exam requirements for both LPCA and LPCC licensures.

The number of supervisees an approved supervisor can have at any given time was debated, including all arguments of leaving the limit to six, as the current law states, to allowing an unlimited amount of supervisees.

The Board initiated discussion with the attendees about possible changes to the requirements of continuing education involving both state and nationally recognized providers.

The Board concluded the discussion stating that there will be a need for sponsors of this bill. The counselor educators were encouraged to start networking to make any possible connections for potential sponsors.
